Good Morning Year 5!!

I have been a busy bee planning your work for the next two weeks. As you may already know, the Year 6 children have been invited to return to school on the 1st June. Please do not worry about this. We have not forgotten you! We will be setting work for you to complete at home as normal and also for any Year 6 children who decided not to return yet. Please do not think you are missing out. School is not school as you know it.

I have set a bit more work this week so that it matches what we might be doing in school from the 1st June. Please don't worry about that. Complete as much of the work as you can. Myself and Mrs Mulhall encourage you to send in pictures of the work that you have done so that we can see how wonderful your work is. You can use the email address for the office and the lovely Mrs Bonfield and Mrs Linfitt will forward anything you send to us. Lots of you have been doing that already and it really does make us smile – yes, we are missing every single one of you and it is great to know what you are all up to! Here is the email address as a reminder: enquiries@cranwell.lincs.sch.uk

We are asking what you have been up to, so here are a few things that we have been getting up to. Mrs Mulhall has been busy preparing resources for German lessons next year and has done lots of running and been out with her dog, Harley, on some lovely walks near her home. I have been busy decorating my house on chillier days and enjoying some gardening when the sun is out. I have also been enjoying the lovely countryside surrounding my village and have discovered lots of new walks with my dog. Today, whilst I have been on my laptop in the garden planning all of this work for you, Bailey, my dog, was dropping some rather subtle hints that she wanted me to stop and to play fetch with her. She jumped on the garden table!! Cheeky dog. I have also loved trying out the new ice cream parlour in the village where I live – delicious and perfect for the end of my dog walk on a hot day!

We are so lucky to have so much countryside around us so we are really spoilt for choice for walks and bike rides.

Here is your next two weeks of work. Remember to try your best. If you need further help, then you can always ring the office and leave a message or email your problem to the email address above. We are all still here to help, even though you are at home © If you look at the heading of each box it will say the subject and also which week we would like you to complete it in. If you follow the dates, then it will match what we are doing in school.

Maths - Week beginning 1/6/20

Please continue to complete your daily maths lesson, using the White Rose resources from the website. Have a go at the questions on the video, on a piece of paper. Remember to also follow the links to BBC Bitesize for even more practise. You can find your lessons here: https://whiterosemaths.com/homelearning/year-5/ Please move onto the section labelled 'Summer Term Week 6 w/c 1st June'. The videos are also available on Facebook, if the website is overloaded.

Of course, I'll continue to set tasks on Mathletics, but only do these if you have spare time!

Want an extra challenge? Complete the sheet below.

Literacy – Week beginning 1/6/20

Attached below is a booklet from Talk for Writing called "One Chance". It takes the form of a booklet which I have included below this table. Inside it you will find lots of things to work through that will help with your reading and writing skills and build on the work that we do in school.

It all begins with a moral...be careful what you wish for!

Monday – complete the section called Just One Wish – what would you wish for? Think very carefully! When you have done that complete the next section The Downside. When you have finished that section then move on to The Mirror of Wishes, followed by The Mirror of Despair.

Tuesday – Read or listen to the story (there is a link in the booklet to an audio version if you need some support or if you prefer to listen to it). After reading the text and completing the small tasks, move to the section What do the WordsMean? If you are finding it hard and don't have a thesaurus or dictionary at home then try an online one such as: https://www.wordsmyth.net/ or https://kids.britannica.com/kids/browse/dictionary Next complete SimilarMeaning or Opposite Meaning.

Wednesday – Complete Likes, Dislikes, Puzzles and Surprises, before moving on to Closer Reading.

Thursday – Complete Creating a Mood With a Sentence of 3(a) followed by (b) before completing Writing Speech Effectively.

Friday – Time to write your story! Complete the section Now Plan Your Own Wishing Story. When you are happy with your planning, Use Your Plan to Draft Your New Wishing Tale. Share your tale with another human being or even maybe your pet. ©

Literacy – Week beginning 8/6/20

NEWSFLASH – you have reached the grand old age of 99! Happy Birthday!! You have decided it is time to write your autobiography (auto=self; bio=life; graphy=to write).

We are giving you the chance to look back on your life to reflect on the wonderful things you have done, the places you have been, and the inspirational people you have met.

You will need to ensure that you are mentioning any major events (Coronavirus pandemic would probably be one of these as it is a global event and you can record what it was like to have been a child during this unprecedented time – you could also include being invited back to your school when you were 58-60 (depending on your age now) to open a Covid-19 timecapsule buried by Mr Wilson in 2020 – use your imagination). What other major or memorable events might happen in your lifetime? Could anything happen in space travel? Will all vehicles be electric? Will something have been invented to replace aeroplanes? Will we still be a country dog and cat lovers or are we all now bee keepers?

Will you have had children? Grandchildren? Great-grandchildren? Perhaps you could include an imaginary family tree within your autobiography to make it seem authentic?

Who will be on the throne when you are 99? Who will have been on the throne between now and then? Thinking about how music has changed throughout the decades, what will you be listening to now or will have enjoyed throughout your life? (This all links to our History last term).

What career did you choose? Did you have more than one career choice? Try to keep t realistic – most people don't tend to be famous footballers, famous popstars or famous youtubers. What experiences did you enjoy in your working life? If you became a vet did you manage to go overseas to work with big cats in a Kenyan wildlife reserve for instance? If you became a volcanologist, which volcanoes have you visited in your research? Maybe your love of dancing led to you creating your own dance school after a career in a ballet company?

What exciting lives did you lead?

Reading/Art task – Week beginning 1/6/20

This week we would like you to create a new book cover for the book that you are currently reading. Have a good look at the existing book cover. Why did the illustrator choose that image for the book's front cover? Does the picture on the front cover give anything important away or just enough to get you interested? What image do you think would represent the book well in your opinion?

Don't forget the title, author, illustrator and publisher information. You will need to write a blurb for the back cover too.

Remember to allow yourself some time to continue reading your book – 30 minutes a day.

Remember, I suggested moving your reading den outside to enjoy this marvellous weather we are having at the moment. There is nothing better than reading in the garden, listening to the sounds of the birds; very relaxing, allow the author to transport you somewhere else! You don't always need to leave your home to have an adventure. ©

Geography – Week beginning 1/6/20 WHAT ARE NATURAL RESOURCES?

Jot down what you think natural resources are before watching the following clip from BBC Bitesize and see if you were right:

https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/zshp34j/articles/z62qy9q the end made me chuckle! Watch the clip again and this time make notes – you could just use a spider diagram like we do on the board at school.

Nest have a look at the nine pictures included below. What is happening in each of the pictures? Ask older siblings or your parents if you are stuck – or even share them with other relatives when you video call them.

Some other countries also have valuable natural resources. For example: South Africa has a precious metal called gold; New Zealand grow sheep which suits their landscape perfectly; Venezuela has lots of oil; and Iceland have plenty of ocean to fish.

Your task this week is to find out as much as you can about the countries in the example above (South Africa, New Zealand, Venezuela and Iceland) and their

Reading/Art task – Week beginning 8/6/20

This week we would like you to think about your favourite book that you have ever read. I remember, when I was a child, I loved Enid Blyton and also enjoyed all the Pippa Longstocking books written by Astrid Lindgren. I know that Harry Potter would have been a firm favourite of mine too.

There are lots of interesting and wonderful books out there whether you crave adventure or sci-fi; animals or gangsta grannies. Give yourself time to think about which you feel would be your favourite still when you are 99 years old.

Once you have decided, then design and create a new book cover for it. Remember the book cover should give a hint of the story within without giving anything away; it needs the title, author and publisher information. You will also need to include the blurb for the back cover and perhaps the price.

Remember time to read undisturbed! Hopefully the weather is still really lovely by the time you are reading this; if not, enjoy your reading den you created in Week 1.

Geography – Week beginning 8/6/20 RENEWABLE AND NON-RENEWABLE RESOURCES – WHICH IS WHICH?

Jot down as many different energy sources you can think of. Ask siblings, parents and relatives to help you.

Now watch the short video clip on BBC Bitesize:

https://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/topics/zshp34j/articles/zntxgwx

Have a look at the list you created before the video clip. Have you been able to add any more to it?

There are some ENERGY CARDS attached below. Sort the cards into two groups: renewable energy sources and non-renewable energy sources. Don't worry if you can't print them off (my printer is always out of ink when I need it!) you could look at them on the screen and write them in two columns. Next explain to another human being why you chose them to be in each group – how good are you at explaining?

Draw an annotated (labelled) poster for each of the two groups to show which energy sources belong in which. Make sure you label them clearly!

amazing natural resources. You could make a min-fact file for each or a powerpoint if you have the chance to use the computer. I will leave the presentation and format up to you!

Ask a sibling, parent or relative (via the phone) what they think the advantages of renewable energy might be. Do they all agree? What do you think? Now ask what they think the disadvantages might be. Do they all agree? What do you think? You could use the activity sheet attached below ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES SHEET if you are finding it hard – you need to sort them into advantages and disadvantages.

Your task this week is to choose one of the following energy sources and to research it and create a factfile/powerpoint about it. Here is the list to choose from (the ones in green are trickier if you want a challenge!):

Renewable – wind, geo-thermal, biomass, hydro-electricity. Non-renewable – coal, natural gas, oil, nuclear.

Spelling Task – Week beginning 8/6/20

Just like last week, can you use a dictionary to find out what these words mean and then learn how to spell them? Try to use the words in your work in Geography this term. It might be wise to make a note of them perhaps?

Remember, if you don't have a dictionary at home, with your parents' permission, try one of the online ones: https://www.wordsmyth.net/ or https://kids.britannica.com/kids/browse/dictionary.

Here are this week's topical words:

- 1. Geothermal
- 2. Biomass
- 3. Hydroelectricity
- 4. Nuclear
- 5. Natural gas
- 6. Coal
- 7. Oil
- 8. Distribution
- 9. Imbalance
- 10. Starvation
- 11. Conservation

German

We hope you have been enjoying practising your German using Duo Lingo. We must say, both Miss Hill and myself have been enjoying practising our German and when we chatted to you all, lots of you said you were enjoying it too. ©

Keep practising – it's quite fun: https://www.duolingo.com/

Art/Relaxation

If you would like to colour in some mindfulness pictures, then there are some attached below. Colouring in is great food for your soul. It helps relax your brain and gives you space to just "be".

PSHE

At times like this people can often experience a wide range of emotions. You are missing those you love like family and friends; missing normal routines and school; missing your clubs and activities; missing going shopping for toys and games; missing birthday parties and celebrations outside the home; missing being free to move around the country and to travel on a plane; missing eating out in restaurants and going to the cinema.

There are lots of things that I am sure you all miss that I haven't mentioned. It's ok to feel like this. It's ok to miss people, things and opportunities. It is all perfectly natural.

What can we do about it? Well we can't change how things are, that's for certain; but we can think of ways to tell people how much we miss them. Why not try one of these ways below:

- You could create a "hug" out of paper for someone you miss, make sure the arms are long enough! Then write all the things you love about them along each of the paper arms and put it in an envelope to send to the person you miss, perhaps it is your grandparents or another relative.
- You could write a letter, thanking someone for being them, or just to say "hi" it's nice to receive a letter through the post that someone has taken the time to write; maybe you will be lucky and receive one back?
- You could write a gratitude diary listing all of the things you are grateful to have in your life and all the things that you are looking forward to doing one day soon. They will be worth the wait!

1. Joy is going on holiday and has left a note for Nellie with instructions for looking after her three horses while she is away.

Unfortunately, it has fallen on the floor and someone has trodden on it with their muddy boot!

- I have left you 13 bales of hay for each day.
- Each of the 3 horses needs bales of hay a day.

Nellie remembers that the total of the digits in the mixed number add up to the total number of hay bales that Joy has left for each day.

Investigate the possible mixed number of hay bales each horse needs.

- The aim of this game is to make a set of 3 cards: 2 equal calculations and their matching answer.
 - · Shuffle the pack of cards. Deal 3 each.
 - Place the remaining cards face down in a pile. The first player takes a card from the top.
 - They can keep it or replace it face up next to the pile.
 - If they keep it, then they must place another of your cards face up next to the pile.
 - The next player can choose to take the top card from either pile.
 - Players must always keep 3 cards in their hand.
 - Players take it in turns until one of them has collected a matching set of 3 cards.

Welcome to the One Chance workbook

Inside you'll find lots of things to work through that will help you with your reading and writing skills and build on the work you do at school.

I'm your virtual teacher, so let's explore together and get your journey started

Introduction "Be careful what you wish for, you may receive it."-anonymous

Have you ever thought about what this means?

The underlying moral of the wishing tale is often played out in real life. Every week many people dream of winning the lottery – they make a wish. Someone then wins a huge sum of money. While this might seem like great news, the story often leads to misery and unhappiness. The sudden win changes lives. Friends and family may be lost. The 'winner 'may lose a sense of purpose as they no longer have to go to work.

This moral message is one that has been used many, many times in stories across the world. It was first thought to have been used in Aesop's Fables. Aesop was a slave and storyteller believed to have lived in ancient Greece.

The aim of this workbook is to enjoy and explore wishing stories, leading to you having a go at writing your own version.

Just one wish

If you had just one chance to make a wish, what would you wish for?

Brainstorm some ideas. For example, I might wish for a new car, a dog or a yacht. Or to be a world-famous footballer or not to have to go to school!

The downside

Now try and think about the positives and negatives of having that wish granted.

For example,

I wish I had a bright red Ferrari. I could drive at immense speed and win many great

However, I would be adding to the destruction of the planet, be breaking the speed limit and endangering my life and the lives of others. I wish I had a small, brown Dachshund. I could take it for long, leisurely walks in the However, I would have to leave it alone for hours on end while I was at school. Now have a go yourself: 1 wish 1 ...

I could However, 1 wish 1 ... I could However,

Now try to be a little more magical. Anything is possible! For example: I wish I was in Hogwarts and befriended Hermione. I could learn some magical spells, play Quidditch and soar high on my enchanted

However, I might let them all know what happens in the story and ruin it for everyone.

The Mirror of Wishes

Do you remember how, in Snow White, the wicked Queen used a mirror that always told the truth? This poem is about what happens when different characters look into a mirror that shows what you wish for. Make a list of people who might look into the wishing mirror and think about what they would wish to see. Pie decided to write about – a teacher, a sailor, a superhero, an astronaut, a pirate, a dragon hunter and a writer.

As you can see, he has written each idea using the same pattern, based on two lines. Copy his pattern but use your own characters and ideas about what they might wish for. Write your poem in your notebook.

The Mirror of Wishes

The teacher looked into the mirror And saw a class of hard-working children.

A sailor looked into the mirror

And saw the still waters of the Atlantic.

Batman looked into the mirror

And saw a crime free day in Gotham City.

An astronaut looked into the mirror And saw his capsule landing in the sea.

A pirate looked into the mirror And saw where a treasure chest lay buried.

A dragon hunter looked into the mirror And saw the location of a dragon's cave.

A writer looked into the mirror And saw stories waiting to be told.

© Pie Corbett 2020

The Mirror of Despair

On the wall, there is also the mirror of despair! This always shows what you fear most of all happening. Either make a new list of people who might look into the mirror of despair and think about what they would most fear to see or write about the same characters to find out what they might most fear. Once again, Pie has written each idea using the same pattern.

Try copying his pattern but use your own characters and ideas about what they might most hate to have happen in their lives. Write your poem in your notebook.

The Mirror of Despair

The teacher looked into the mirror

And saw children throwing paper airplanes.

A sailor looked into the mirror And saw a tsunami approaching.

Superman looked into the mirror

And saw he was wearing a pair of kryptonite tights!

An astronaut looked into the mirror

And saw an asteroid as big as Bristol approaching

A pirate looked into the mirror

And saw sharks gathering beneath the plank.

A dragon hunter looked into the mirror

And saw that he had picked up a plastic sword by mistake.

A writer looked into the mirror And saw a library burst into flames.

One Chance

Outside, the evening was cold and wet. A squally wind howled, rattling the roof tiles and shaking the window frames of 13 Wager Road. Inside, shabby curtains were drawn, a humble fire crackled and a couple sat in silence. Jack stretched out on the tired couch with an amused smile, turning the page of his favourite novel. Sarah scowled, silently seething. She scanned the room, noticing the worn-out furniture, peeling paint and, in her opinion, a pointless, idle husband. She deserved so much more than this.

Suddenly, the letterbox jangled and there was a solitary but decisive knock on the door. Hope, the Labrador, barked. Sarah pulled back the curtain and watched as a hooded figure slipped silently away up the road. Puzzled, she stared down at a golden card that had appeared, glinting on the frayed doormat.

Tentatively, she gathered it up and read it out loud:

Golden Lottery Ticket Ltd.
Congratulations!
You have been selected as one of our lucky lottery winners.
This golden ticket entitles you to receive one of three exclusive wishes.
Simply, scratch the card and make your wish.
Once you have claimed your wish, pass on the luck!
Wish 1 Redeemed
Wish 2 Scratch here
Wish 3 Scratch here
Small privet: Remember to use your presions with wisely – wealth is seet the root of happiness.

What next? We've stopped at an interesting part of the story. Summarise below what you think could happen next.

To the second	I predict

Now let's find out how close your predictions were. Read on!

Sarah gasped. This is just what she was looking for – another chance. Maybe lose the idle husband as well, she thought, shaking her head.

"I am going to give this a go. I am thinking lots of money to buy expensive clothes and maybe you can finally sort this house out," she said to Jack, rummaging desperately in the drawer for a coin.

"Utter nonsense," muttered Jack, glancing up from his book and taking in the room.
"I love this old house and you just the way you are. Even if all that did come true, there'll be a catch. No one gets something for nothing. Just throw it away."

Sarah stopped and nodded sullenly. He was right. She made to throw the ticket on the fire, but something stopped her. Furtively, she stashed it in her pocket.

Later that evening, as Jack slept, Sarah retrieved the ticket and greedily scratched 'Wish 2', dreaming of immense riches or, to be precise, £100,000. Outside, a squally wind howled. Inside, nothing happened. Bitterly, she tossed the ticket into the bin.

The next day, the wind died down to a cool, whispering breeze. Jack prepared for his early morning walk with Hope. Pulling his woollen hat firmly down over his ears, he called out to Sarah that he wouldn't be out long and left. Sarah scowled. She could barely respond.

Eight hours passed and Sarah began to worry – where were Jack and Hope? Shaking with fear, she dialled 999, hoping for the best but fearing the worst.

A massive search was launched but there was no sign. Jack and Hope had simply vanished. Sarah was distraught. Deep down she worried if their disappearance had anything to do the golden ticket.

Days later, as the wind whipped up again, a woman in a black cloak knocked at the door. She told Sarah she had been sent to offer some compensation for her sad loss. Sarah was feeling desperate so asked, "How much?"

"Shall we say... £100,000?"

Shocked, Sarah recalled the greedy sum she had wished for. Could it be true? Had her selfish wish actually been granted? Quickly, she raced outside and rummaged desperately through the bin, trying to locate the discarded ticket. With sickening dread, she smoothed out the crumpled ticket and gasped in horror. It was true. The second wish had been redeemed.

Sarah leaned against the bin for support, her head spinning, her thoughts in turmoil. Then she gathered herself together. There was still one final wish left ... Could she use it to try and bring Jack and Hope back? She needed a coin, quick.

Just then, without warning, the squally wind howled and snatched the ticket from her hand. It spiralled, higher and higher like autumn leaves in a storm and then, like the mysterious woman herself, it was gone. Sarah cried out of helpless pain.

Inside, the shabby curtains were drawn and a humble fire crackled.

Challenge: Many words can mean different things depending on the context they are used in. Investigate whether there are other possible meanings for the word using a dictionary or the web. Jot your findings in the grid above.

Similar meaning or opposite meaning

Now investigate words that are similar (synonyms) or opposite (antonyms or near antonyms). Fill in the grid below

Target word	Synonym	Antonym or near antonym
squally	stormy, windy tempestuous, blowy, blustery, breezy	calm, pleasant, serene, tranquil motionless, undisturbed

Challenge: For some words, is there an order from the 'weak 'to 'strong'?
For example, Seething

le, seething

Some synonyms for seething:

irate cross livid furious
'weaker' 'stronger'

If you have managed to put a number of alternative words in the grid above, circle the words that are the strongest alternatives in each box. I've done the first one for you.

Now try and use some of your favourite words from the list above in a sentence.

For example, seething

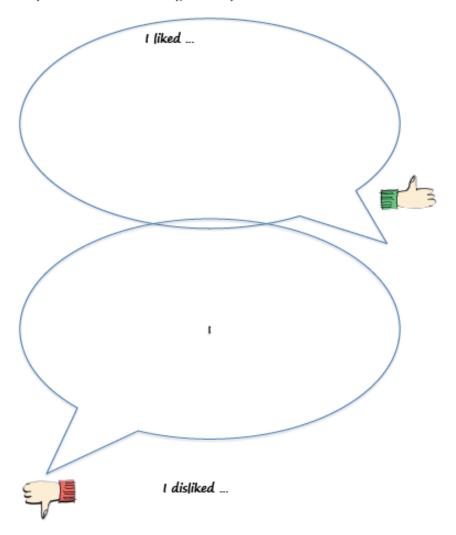

Sarah's seething resentment finally reached boiling point.

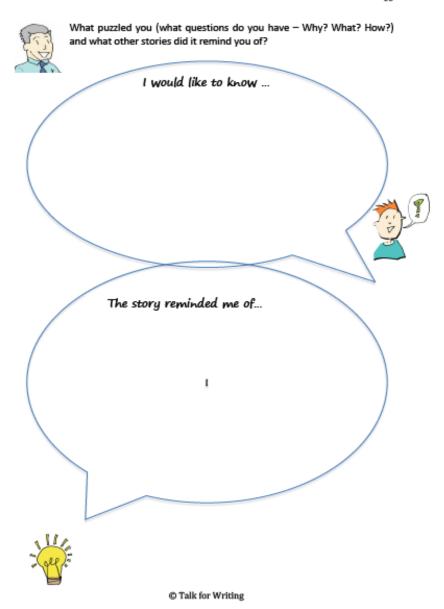

At the end of the match, the seething mass spilt out of the football ground.

Likes, dislikes, puzzles & surprises!

Now you have read the whole story, what did you like and dislike?

Closer reading

Let's look more closely at the opening of the story.

Re-read the opening, thinking about the words chosen by the writer.

What words has the writer used to try to show what Jack and Sarah are like? I have highlighted words that show what Jack is like here:

Extract from One Chance 1.

Outside, the evening was cold and wet. A squally wind howled, rattling the roof tiles and shaking the window frames of 13 Wager Road. Inside, shabby curtains were drawn, a humble fire crackled and a couple sat in silence. Jack stretched out on the tired couch with an amused smile, turning the page of his favourite novel. Sarah scowled, silently seething. She scanned the room, noticing the worn-out furniture, peeling paint and, in her opinion, a pointless, idle husband. She deserved so much more than this.

This is what these words make me think about Jack:

"The word 'stretched' makes me think Jack is lying down and very relaxed. He is reading one of his favourite novels or books which I think he has read many times. In addition, he appears to be happy and content because he has an 'amused smile'."

Now it is your turn.

What words could you highlight that show us what Sarah is like?

Outside

Outside, a squally wind howled, rattling the roof tiles and -shaking the window frames.

Have a go at writing your versions of this sentence to create an atmosphere by telling your reader 3 things the weather is doing. And remember the commas!

Creating a mood with a sentence of 3 (b)

Now add a second sentence of three. Look at the 'inside' sentence below and you'll see that it gives us three details about the inside of the house.

Outside, a squally wind howled, rattling the roof tiles and shaking the window frames. Inside, shabby curtains were drawn, a humble fire crackled and Jack read, silently.

Pick out 3 details to create a list sentence of 3

Have a go at writing your own versions of this 'inside' sentence by picking out 3 details. Here I chose curtains, a fire and Jack. Then I added some descriptive detail. Look about you and pick out three things to describe like the TV, a mug and the dog.

Inside, the TV was muted, a chipped mug of coffee steamed on a small pine table and a white dog slept, whimpering.

Writing speech effectively

In a bit, you will be writing your own story. Start thinking of two characters who will be in your story. You might want to create a character who was always wishing that he or she didn't have to go to school and is now regretting their wish! The other character warns them against this.

In stories, one character often speaks and another replies. This helps move the story along and should tell the reader something about the characters. We need to make sure we lay out the speech clearly and punctuate the way that they speak so that the reader knows:

- what's said
- who said it
- how they said it.

There are some golden rules for writing speech:

- Put inverted commas (" ") around what is actually said.
- 2) Begin a new line (paragraph) for every new speaker.
- 3) Always begin a new piece of speech with a capital letter.
- 4) Always put some punctuation at the end of the speech . , ! or ?
- 5) To make it interesting, tell us how the words were spoken.

Have a look at my cartoon example:

With cartoons, you want the words spoken to interest the reader and move the story along and you use the images to help them picture what the speaker is like, how they feel etc. Writing speech in a story is very similar except this time you have to use words to paint the picture of how the speaker is feeling and how they react to what someone else has said. Look at the example below:

The speech marks go around what is said. The first word of speech has a capital letter The last word spoken has punctuation after it, inside the speech marks.

That morning, Dwayne was endlessly * muttering under his breath, "If only I didn't have to go to school."

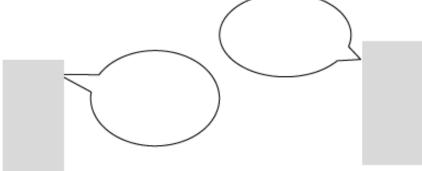

This is what his mum replies (new speaker = new paragraph)

→ "Bet you'd miss it if it wasn't there!"
retorted his mum, tired of his endless grumbling.

This tells us who said it & how they felt when they said it.

Now it's your turn. Decide on your two characters. Make character 1 wish something and character 2 react. Let the reader know how each character feels. Write what they say into the speech bubbles and draw an image to show us how each speaker feels.

Now turn your cartoon into a short dialogue from a wishing story. Use the pattern and punctuation that I used on the previous page to help you. Use the words you select help the reader picture the scene.

Now decide on what happens in your wishing story

In my story, the wish arrived in the form of a lucky scratch card or golden ticket. Here are some objects that have been used in stories before:

What other objects could be used?

Some ideas

You might want to pick an interesting object you could use in your story and then think about how this might arrive and how this could link to a setting and different characters. Try to have two characters who are different. One could be cautious and ignore the warning, the other will not, causing something else to happen that they did not expect – be careful what you wish for! Think about the mood or atmosphere. How might you make the weather reflect the bad news that is coming?

If you want some help, try reading some other wishing tales:

Now plan your own wishing story

Here is the underlying pattern of the story to help you plan a new version. Jot down some ideas in note form before starting so that you know where your story is going. You can always alter the plan a bit to fit your story and remember, you can always change your mind as you write.

Underlying story pattern	Plan for your story
Main characters in a safe, homely setting: one dreaming of a fortune or change
An object arrives with a 'too good to be true' promise or wish
One character warns against, but the other character ignores the warning and makes a wish. Nothing happens. Yet!
Wish comes true but with unforeseen consequences.
Character wants to use another wish to put things right, but the object has disappeared.

Use your plan to draft your new wishing tale.

Challenges

Try to use:

- words carefully to build up the picture you want to create of how the characters feel, what they do and what happens;
- the outside/inside opening to create an atmosphere or mood and have the weather hint at the terrible events that are coming;
- speech to show how the characters are opposite through what they say and what they do and feel as they speak.

Edit your draft as you go along. Once you've completed your draft, read it through and give it a final edit.

Well done! Now that you have a new wishing tale, why not publish it?

Below are some simple instructions for making a mini book from a piece of A4 paper.

If you have access to the Internet, type this into Google:

https://cutt.ly/QtvAkwq

Here, you can watch a mini-book being made and follow the instructions.

Or try this:

Unfold your sheet of paper. It should look the this with an open sit in the middle. Fold it in half lengthwise again. [Hotolog Fold.] Unfold everything. Now it is a big at paper with loss of fold lines. 3. Fold in half again. One sheet of white paper. 12" X 18" is a good size to use. Keep pushing edges together until diamond becomes a si it again, perpendicular to folded edges. How to Make a Six-Page Book With One Sheet of Paper! 9 Fold one edge toward silt and the opposite silt toward folded edge. 4. Fold in half again. Pold in half in the middle- this time a "Hamburger Pold". Make a mark with your panels in the center of the hidded street. Title your ocioes and out from the folded edge to the center dot. Step cutting at the dot! Push kided edges towards center allowing the slifts open up into a diemond shape. Feld in half lengthveise. Also known as a "Hoddog Fold". X Be sure to go over the creases to make them shap. Now you have a small six-pape book! S. New you have a very small folded sheat of paper. But It len't a book yet. ተ

Advantages and Disadvantages of Renewable Energy

Read each of the statements about renewable energy sources. Match them under the correct heading on the table to show whether the statement is describing an advantage or a disadvantage.

Renewable energy sources will not run out.

Wind turbines can only be used if the weather conditions are suitable.

Solar panels are cheap to maintain.

Renewable energy sources are clean to use as there are fewer greenhouse gas emissions.

Hydroelectric systems can harm environments and wildlife.

The technology required is often expensive to purchase.

Unused energy produced by households can be sold back to the main national grid.

Usually, the energy is produced at a slower rate than when using fossil fuels.

Wind turbines can be very noisy.

Due to use of a stable source of energy, the cost of renewable fuels does not change much.

Renewable energy technologies could produce many jobs in the future.

Renewable energy technologies can be used on small or large scales - e.g. one house or an entire wind farm.

Not all places in the world can make use of renewable energy sources. A lot of land is required to set up large scale systems to make enough electricity.

1. Joy is going on holiday and has left a note for Nellie with instructions for looking after her three horses while she is away.

Unfortunately, it has fallen on the floor and someone has trodden on it with their muddy boot!

- I have left you 13 bales of hay for each day.
- Each of the 3 horses needs bales of hay a day.

Investigate the possible mixed number of hay bales each horse needs.

- 1. The aim of this game is to make a set of 3 cards: 2 equal calculations and their matching answer.
 - · Shuffle the pack of cards. Deal 3 each.
 - Place the remaining cards face down in a pile. The first player takes a card from the top.
 - They can keep it or replace it face up next to the pile.
 - If they keep it, then they must place another of your cards face up next to the pile.
 - The next player can choose to take the top card from either pile.
 - Players must always keep 3 cards in their hand.
 - Players take it in turns until one of them has collected a matching set of 3 cards.
